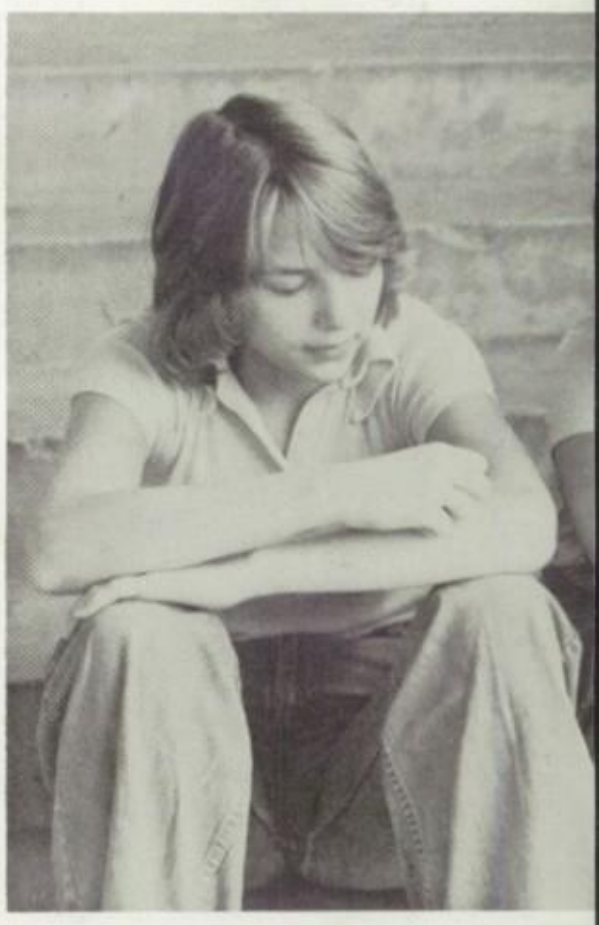
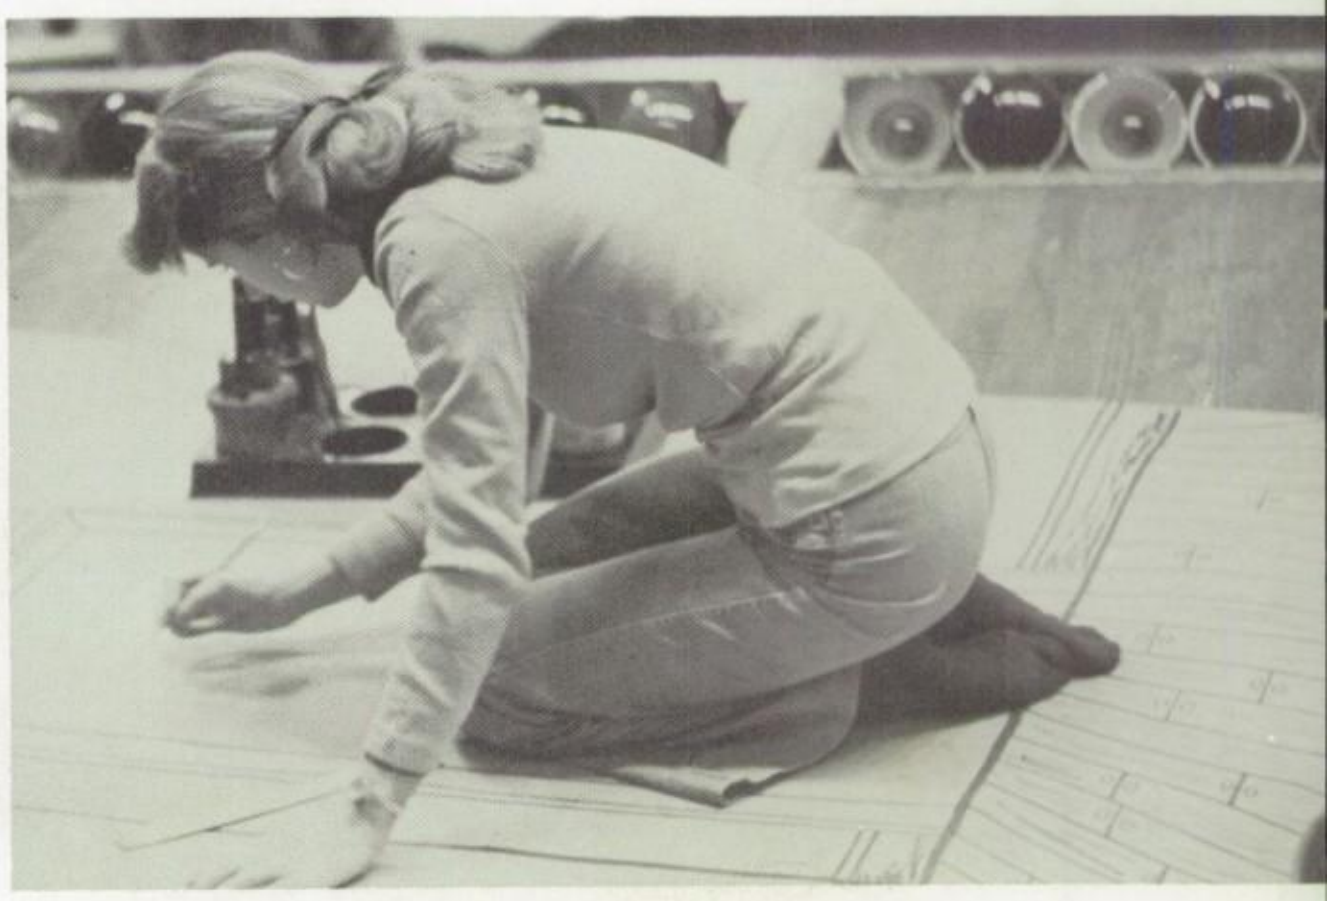
THE VARIETY SHOP

Cavemen, door decorations, great basketball teams, a number one band -- the Ole Brook Variety Shop has all this and much more. Conveniently located on East Monticello Street in a nostalgic yellow brick building, the shop is open from 8 am to 3 pm Monday through Friday. The shop has been serving the greater Brookhaven area since 1938, and though the merchandise has changed from year to year, the tradition of high quality has been maintained. Over 708 items are in stock. Small-town atmosphere and true southern hospitality make the Ole Brook Variety Shop, a pleasant place to visit. You are invited to come and browse at your leisure, but make it early because the best parking places are soon filled.

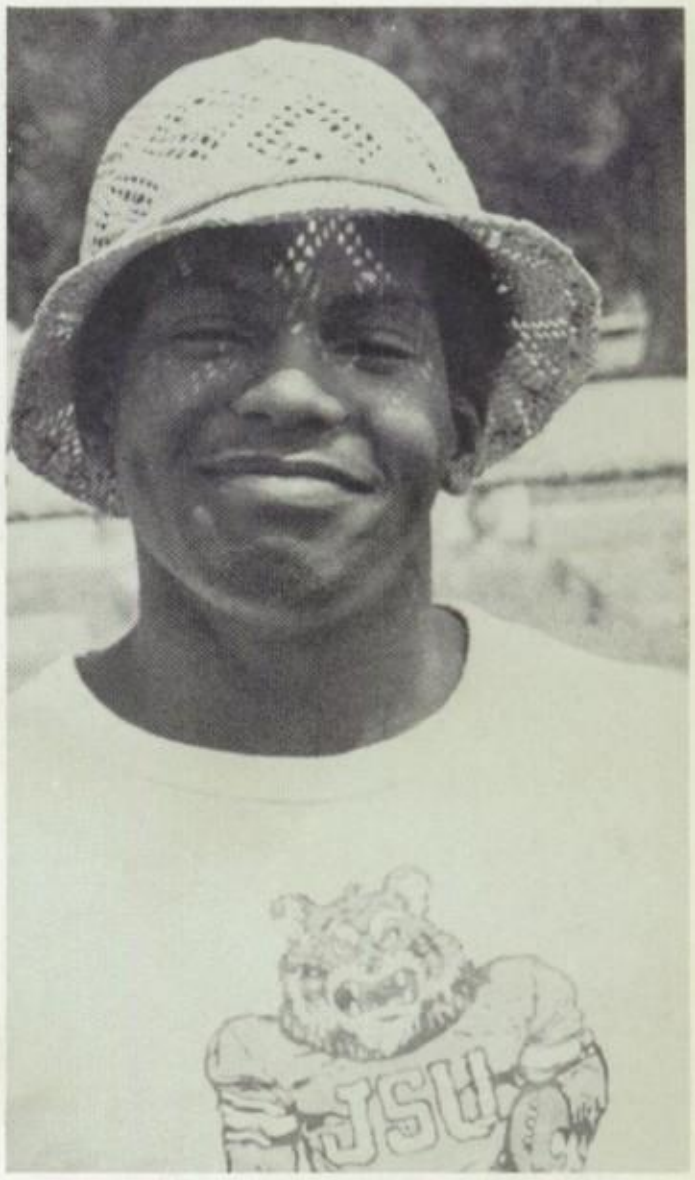


Upper right: The aftermath--Jane Patterson contemplates the first week at BHS.
Below: Artists at work-Sally Tempel puts finishing touches on the homecoming backdrop, and a decorating committee takes a break.



"Welcome to the variety shop. "

Below: Shoppers receive a warm welcome from Marshall Dillon and a chance to visit Roach's used car lot.



KALEIDOSCOPE

Brookhaven High School possesses a panorama of personalities. Just like Alice's Restaurant you can get anything you want at Brookhaven High, ranging from Robbin Jackson heaving a 500 pound bar bell to Jamie Oster in a tutu.

Individuality is an important ideal around BHS and it shows in the faculty, too. The faculty sports such variety as Mrs. Holloway and Mr. Wyatt, so you can pick anything "of that which you will have."

"Irregardless" of your taste, Brookhaven High has something to suit you. Just like in an old time variety store, browsing is a pleasure. So, help yourself . . .

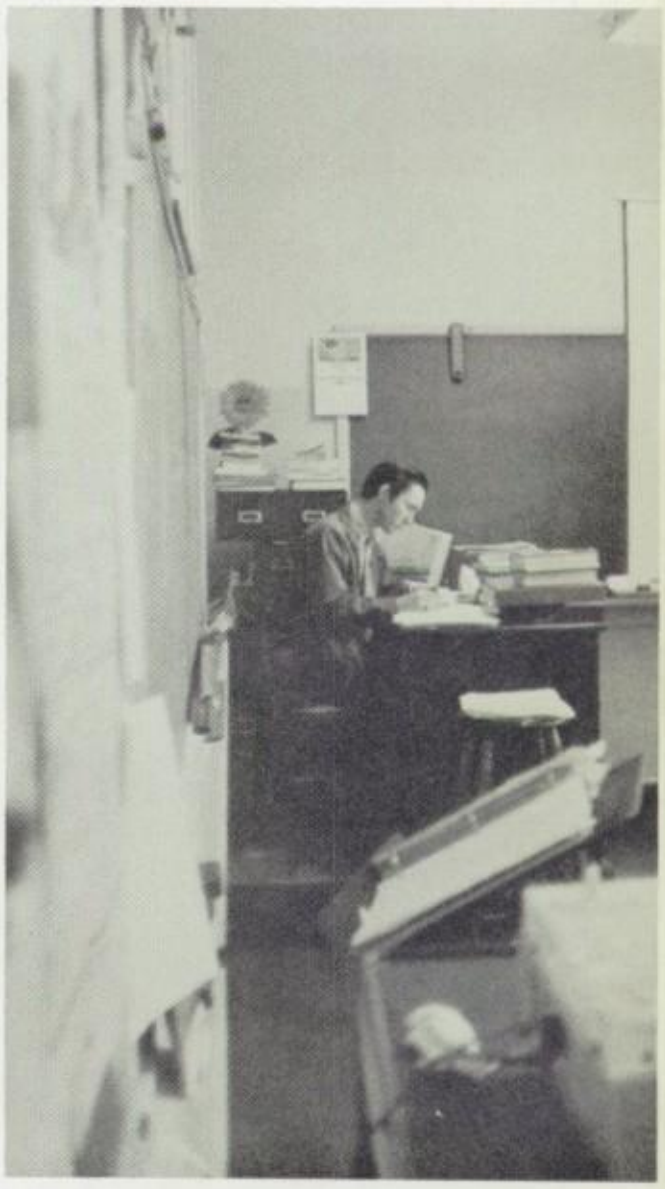
Upper right: The pit claims yet another victim.

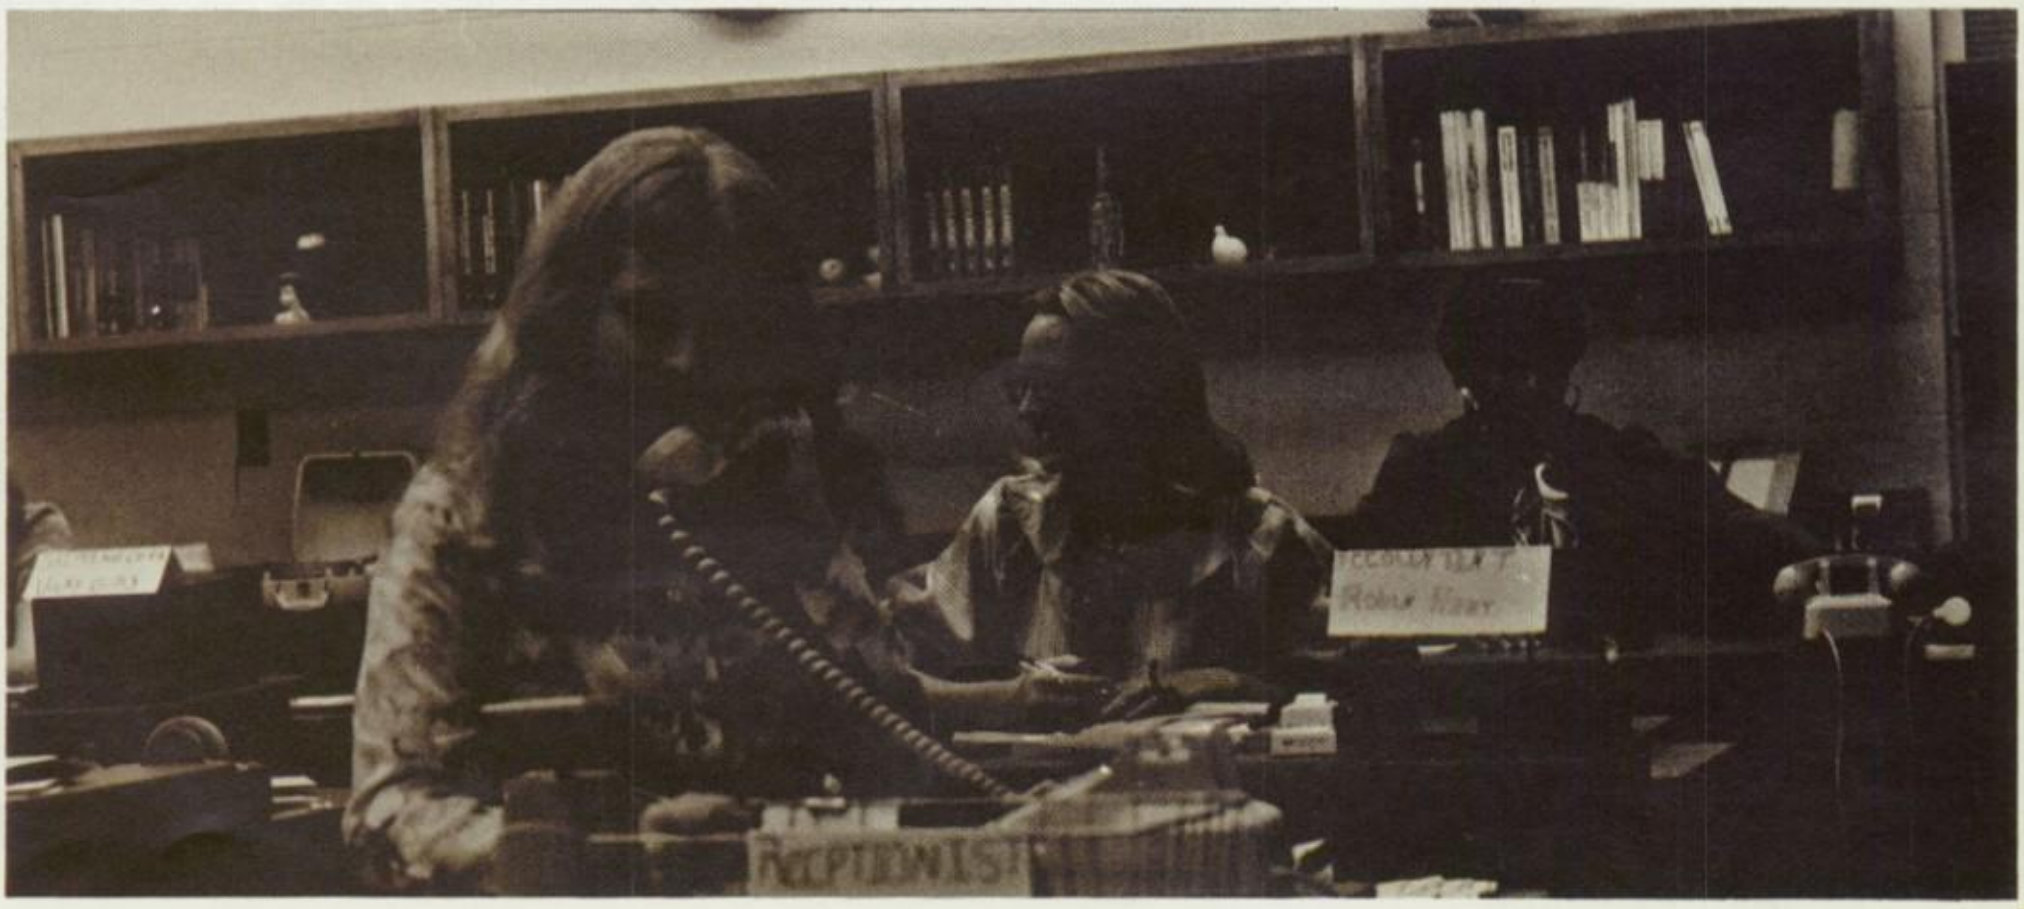
Middle right: Recess provides a chance to cram for the next test.

Lower right: Chorus practices for Christmas concert.

Upper left: "Wait 'til Mrs. Robinson sees that!" reflects Mae Helen Berry.

Below: Mr. Wyatt bones up on American folklore, and Intensified Business keeps Serendipity Cosmetics in the black.





SPIRIT

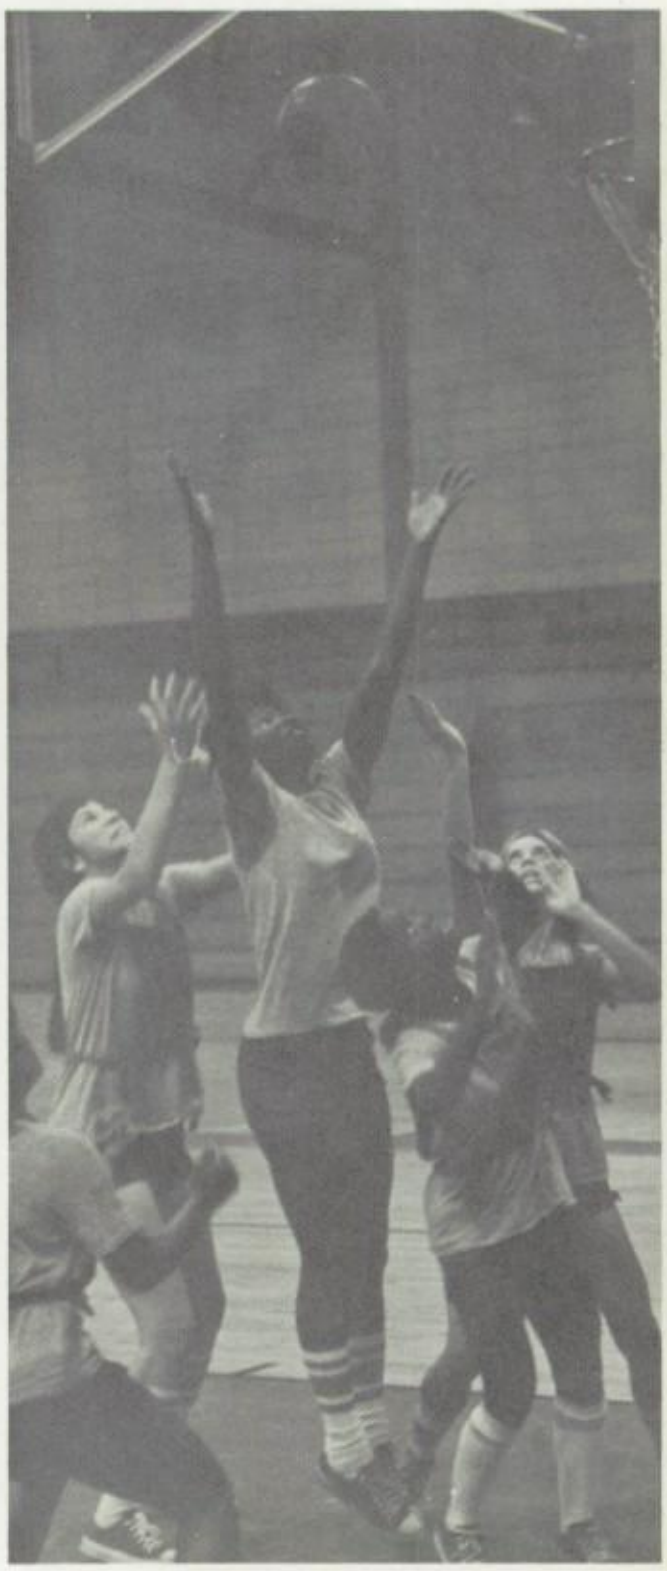
Spirit ran high in '77, even though the football team sported an off season. The cavalry showed up in time in the form of basketball. Basketball games proved to be real breath-takers, evoking yells from even the most unemotional spectator.

Pep rallies gave everyone a chance to get wild and among ear-piercing screams, victory battle cries, and "harass them, harass them, make them relinquish the ball," the students gave up inhibitions. Led by Maxine McCoy and Jackie Arnold, even the sophomores got in a cheer or two.

A new twist this year was basketball pep rallies. It just goes to show you, give high-spirited students an inch and they'll take a mile.

Far Left: Basketball star Ralph Smith models the latest thing in fashion at BHS, the tutu.

Below: Practice makes perfect. The girls' basketball team, due to hours of diligent practice, became seasoned players and provided roundball fans with many exciting games.



THE DAILY GRIND

Below: Mrs. Hart's homeroom hangs 'em high for door decoration day.

Right: "How did I ever do that?" Cindy Smith muses over Mrs. Henderson's biology test.

Below: Drum majors Susan Givens and Macie Cooley take time out from the daily grind to catch a well deserved forty winks.

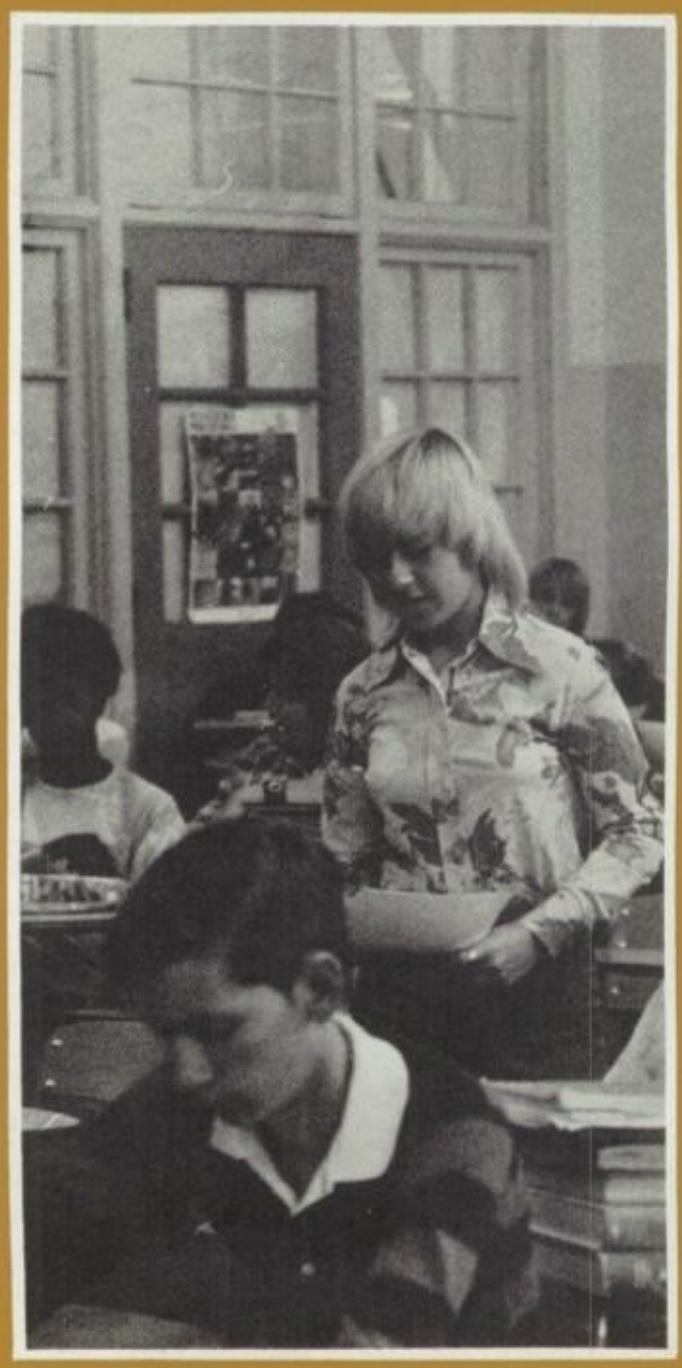
Far right: "Dress rehearsals was a drag." Tim Benjamin excitedly awaits his cue.

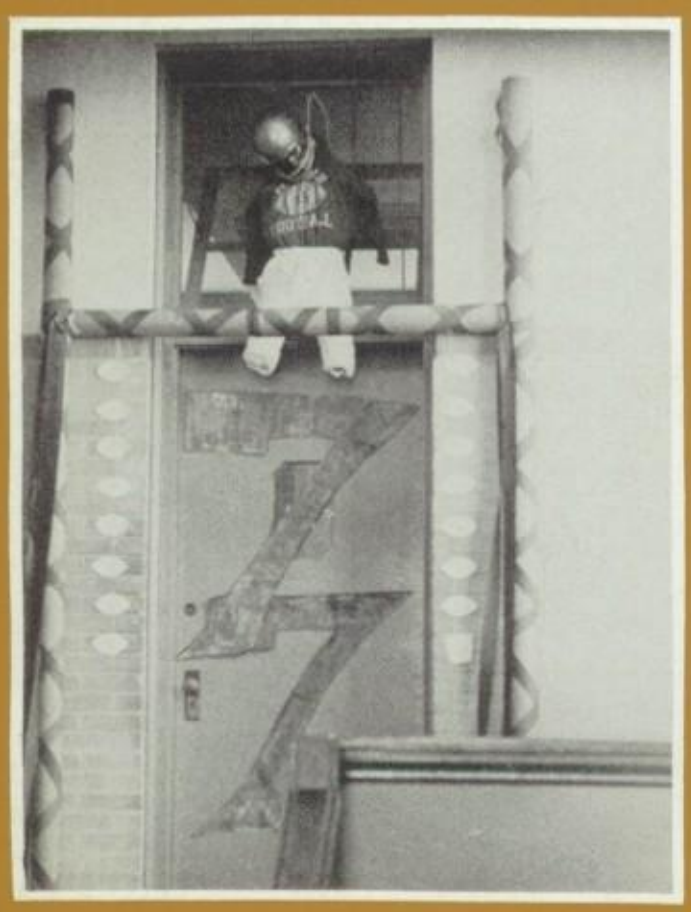
Life was festive at times, but sooner or later everyone fell into the daily grind. After a few weeks of "a, a, a space" and geometry truth tables, anyone can fall in a rut.

The sophomores' main problems were going in the designated doors and walking on the right side of the hall.

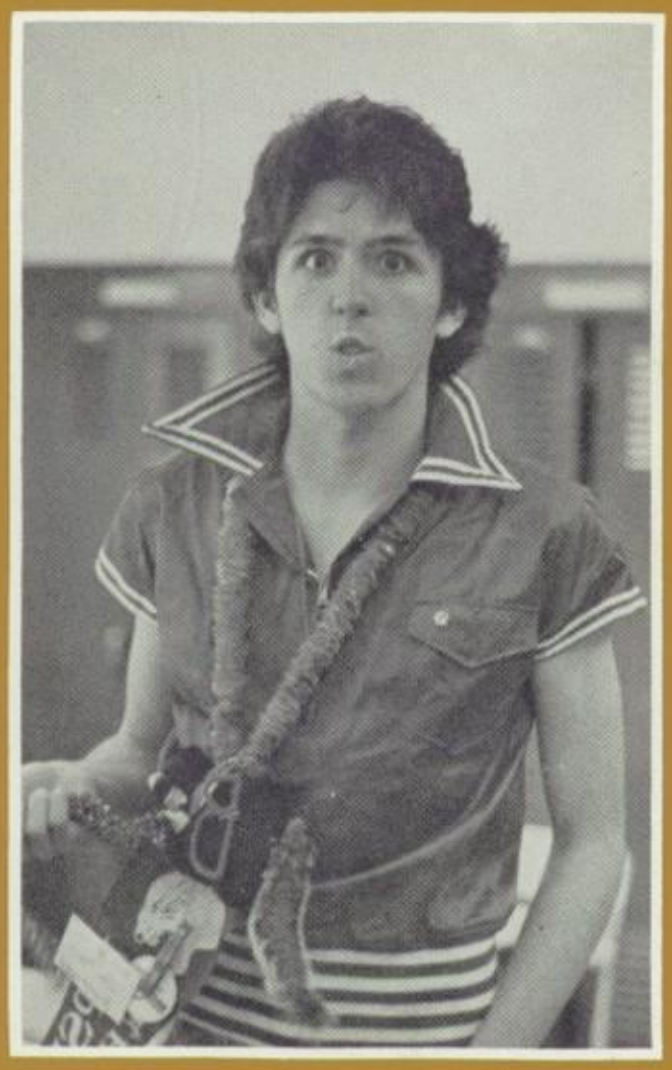
The juniors returned feeling a bit taller, knowing that they could gloat over sophomores.

September brought 190 seniors who could hardly believe that there were only 9 short months 'til graduation.





Left: Undaunted by the presence of a camera, BHS clowns Robbin Jackson and Connie Shiel perform as Jim Shields takes notes.



Below: Modeling his 1905 basketball shirt and formal neckwear, Jim Moyer enlivens Mrs. White's 4th period analysis class with the latest fashion.

Below: "Did you say something, Mr. Roach?" Gayle Wesley and Rosie Clark relax at recess.

Just like any other store, the Ole Brook Variety Shop has many departments in the form of clubs. Good buys can be made in the different departments, and interesting articles are sure to be found. So, take a look . . .

DEPARTMENTS

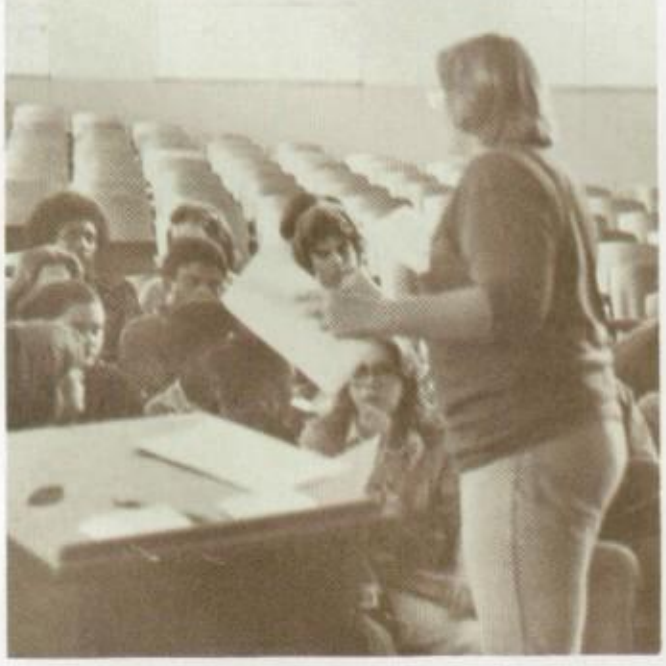
STUDENT COUNCIL

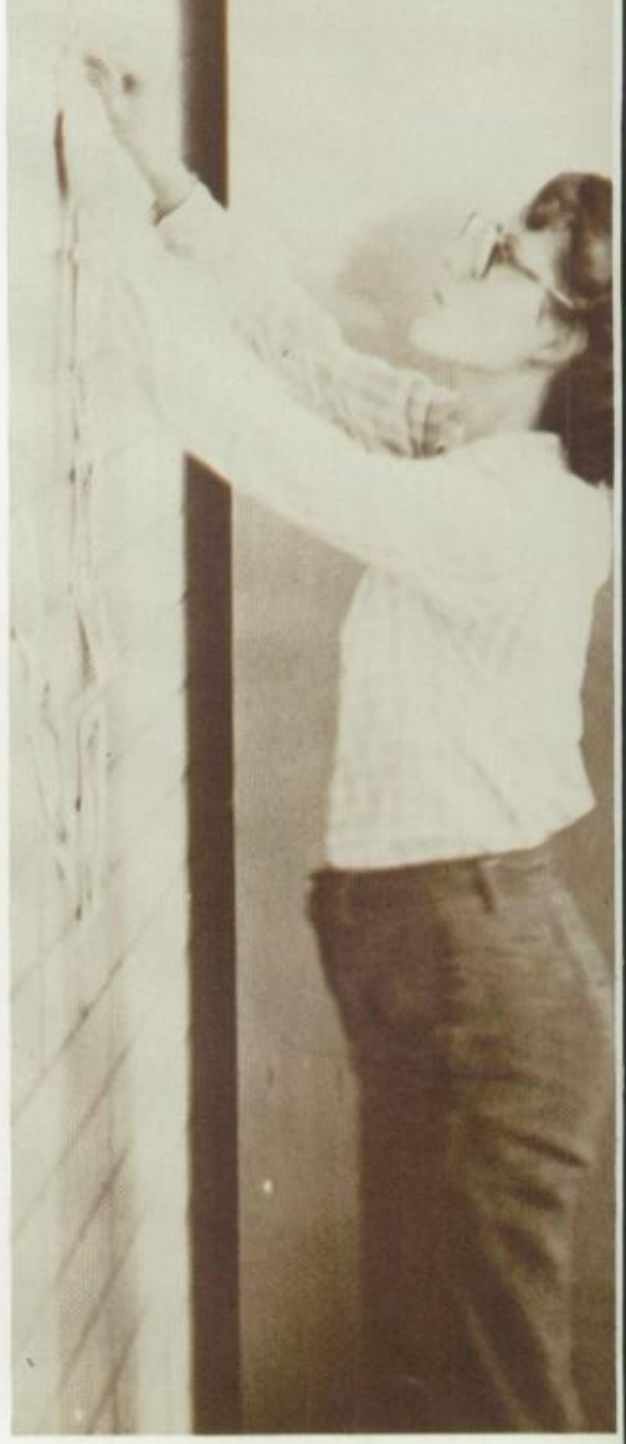
Student Council, the nucleus of leadership at Brookhaven High, spiced the school year with numerous projects. Among them were the selling of buttons representing each class, entering a Christmas tree decorating contest, and sponsoring Red and Blue and Door Decoration Day.

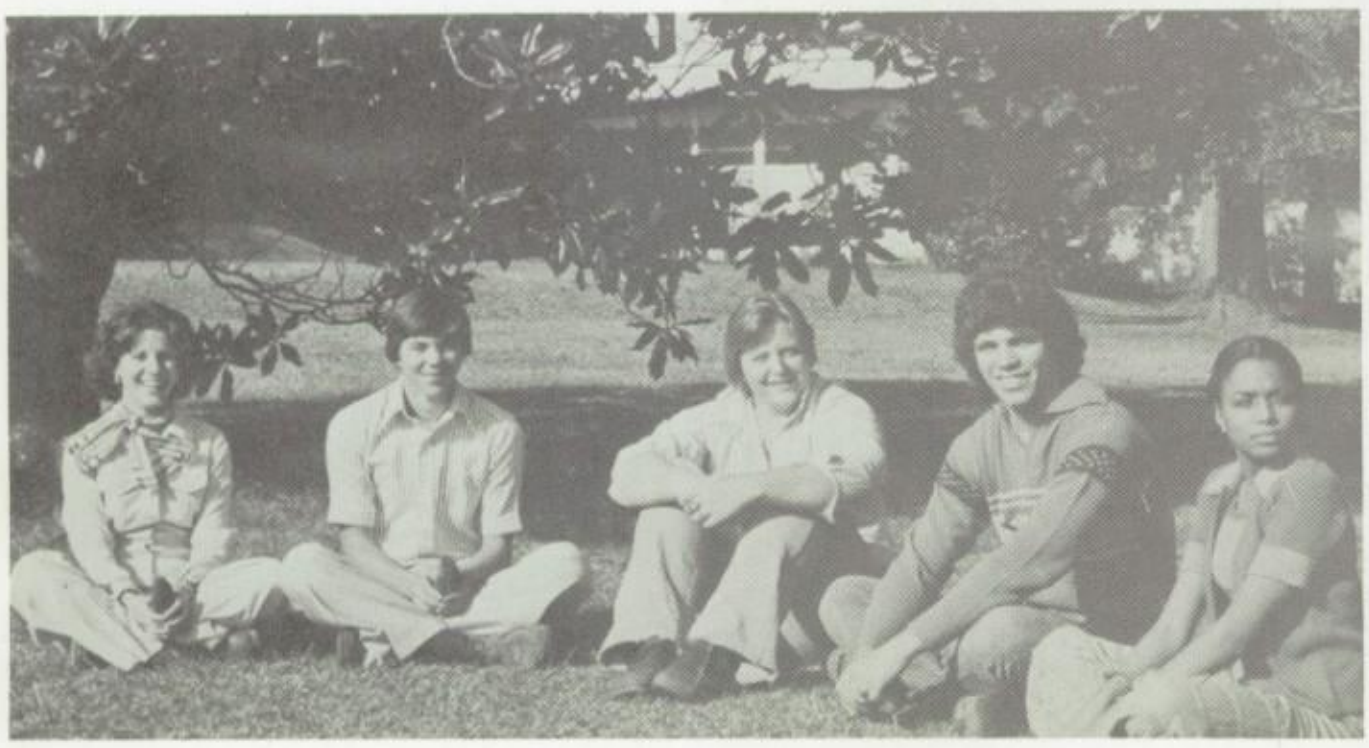
Officers contributed a certain pizzaz with secretary Felecia Jett often seen sprinting through the halls on Friday morning to read the minutes. Rumor had it that knowledge of the wrath of Connie was what put wings on her feet.

The council proved without a doubt it was made of the stuff that provides strong leadership for an active student body.

Officers: Connie Shiel, Amy Sproles, Felecia Jett, Jerry Cox, and Jim Gulley.







Left: Senior student council homeroom representatives, the elders of the council, take time out for a group shot.

Below left: Efficient and hard-working, secretary Felecia Jett reads the minutes for the benefit of the student body. This activity carries out the plan to get everyone involved in student government.

PEER COUNCIL

The Peer Council, led by Mrs. Betsy Smith, was a unique learning experience for students.

Members learned to help youngsters and teenagers with problems through such activities as skits and puppet shows which Randy White demonstrates (right) to elementary students.

ADMINIS-TRATIVE COUNCIL

Under the leadership of Mr. Prater and Mr. Roach, the Administrative Council spoke for students on administrative decisions.

Council members are:
front: Robert Clay, Molly Day, Perry Cameron;
back: Randy White, Mike Felder.

STUDENT TUTORS

Under the spontaneous supervision of Mr. Carl "The Disappearing" Craig, the student tutors slaved diligently to provide help to pupils burdened with the yoke of Mrs. White's algebra and Mr. Smith's ferocious chemical equations. To quote one of the tutors, "Use the study center; it's better than you think."

Above: (Front row) Jim Moyer, Diane Thornhill, Amy Sproles, Debra Rushing, Nancy Cupit. (Back row) Randy White, Lisa Black, Robin Tyler, Robin Robinson, Molly Day, Felecia Jett, David Crasto.

HI-Y

Hi-Y was made up of young men interested in developing Christian ideals that will help them throughout their lives.

One of the club's projects was giving a complete dinner at Thanksgiving and Christmas to a needy family.

Upper right: Hi-Yers work on pet project, taking Thanksgiving dinner to a needy family.

Below: Hi-Y sponsor Mr. Wyatt, and president, Tommy Thomas, preside over meeting.

Y-TEENS

Y-Teens, the female counterpart of Hi-Y, numbered 125 strong this year. The objects of the group, to provide Christian fellowship and a chance to help others, was well exemplified in their projects.

At Thanksgiving the Y-Teens took fruit to a local resthome. Vice-President of the A Y-Teens, Ann Hudson, represented Brookhaven High at the State Y-Teen Conference at Belhaven.

Upper left: C Y-Teens repaint aisle numbers on auditorium floor.

MATH CLUB

How's your mantissa? How's your parabola? Don't get worried if you're having problems with them; go to members of the math club.

The Math Club, or Mu Alpha Theta, was made up of mathematics students having the required semester of numbers under their belts.

The club provided interested students with a chance to expand their knowledge of mathematics.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club, 47 strong, was instrumental in providing biology, chemistry, and physics students with a unique learning experience. Along with teaching students the fine art of bumming money for cokes, the club also had many programs, one of which was a visit from a representative of Mississippi Power and Light, showing the use and dangers of electricity. Under the watchful eyes of Mr. Joe "The Cool" Smith and Mrs. Henderson and the leadership of Jim Gulley, the club did prove delightful.

Center: Science Club with officers in front.

LATIN CLUB

How would you like to travel back through time to the age of Ancient Rome? You can with Muncie's Time Machine.

This machine is better known as the Latin Club. Past and present Latin scholors made up the organization. Through interesting programs, like Shelia Wallace's report of the National Junior Classical League Convention and brillant projects such as the construction of a catapult, the group maintained a spirit of classic Rome.

Above: The ruling elders, the Latin II class, get the latest news from Hannibal on his trip through the Alps.
Middle: Catapult builders, Jimmy Barker and Royce Shiel, seem puzzled at the wreck of Sanquinarius.

SPANISH CLUB

Geto ito togethero! Well, not everybody's Spanish is perfect, but members of the Spearman Spanish Society surely had the edge on the rest of us.

Along with language proficiency, the Spanish Club provided a study in culture for its members. Led by Señora Spearman students learned songs, dances and customs of Spanish speaking countries.

One thing is for sure though, either playing around or warring with arch rivals (Latin Club), those Spaniards had fun.

Above: "Ooww! You're tangoing on my foot!" Dance lessons came free of charge with Spanish Club membership.
Middle: "La cucharacha, la cucharacha!" Senora Spearman leads Spaniards in an all too familiar song.
Below: Spanish Clubbers pose with officers kneeling.

FHA

OK, Betty Crocker, watch out! Here come the BHS Future Homemakers of America!

FHA was composed of Home-Ec students who had a willing desire to help others.

Some FHA projects were Christmas adopt-a-grandparent, visits to local rest homes, a toy basket for a needy family, and pot flowers for the school building.

FHA was truly a service club.

Above: "Look at those fingers fly!" Home-Ec students enjoy the work of the class.
Middle: Brookhaven High FHA.
Across: Officers of FHA are installed during a special program.

Above: Drum majors, Susan Givens and Macie Cooley led the band to many fine performances.

BHS BAND

The band started this year with a blast by capturing superior ratings at the second annual Picayune Marching Festival. Led for a second year by Mr. Richard Peters the band found, through trial and error, how to pull together as a group.

This year, in addition to feature twirler Robbin Jackson, a twirler corps was formed consisting of three members. They, along with the other auxiliaries, added color and snap to the band.

LIBRARY CLUB

What's so much fun about taking a 4¢ overdue fine from a twenty dollar bill and searching thirty minutes for a book only to find it's not the one the person wanted? Who knows--but the library assistants say they enjoy it.

Willingness to do a hard job proves that it takes a special kind of person to be a library assistant.

BUSINESS EDUCATION CLUB

"Take dictation, Miss Newsom!" The Business Education Club, sponsored by Miss Elaine Newsom, provided business students with training for work in the professional world.

Group activities and talks by businessmen provided interesting meetings and a lot of fun for business students.

BROOK VARIETY SHOP

After hours of layouts, thousands of pictures and last minute deadlines the '77 Ole Brook finally became a reality; the variety shop was coming to life.

Here are the people who stocked the shelves . . .

Across: Annual assistants.
Top row (left to right): Hans Jeanson, Business Manager; Connie Shiel, Literary Editor.

Above right: The editors learn how to "lay-out" at summer annual camp.
Across top: Senior annual representatives.
Across middle: Junior annual representatives.
Lower: Sophomore annual representatives.

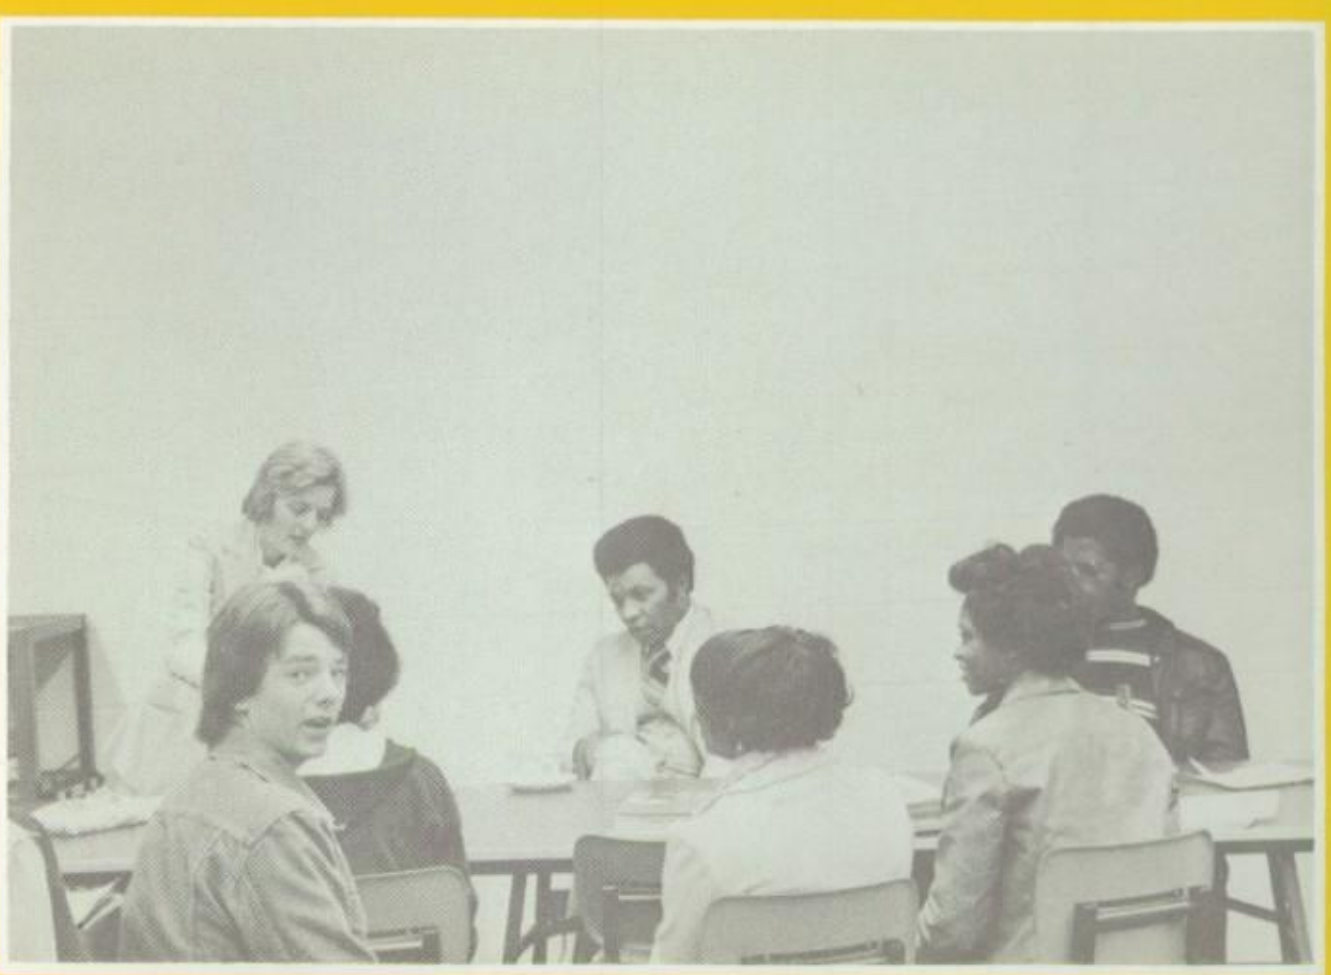
Though things got hectic, the annual staff managed to hang together and produce the OLE BROOK VARIETY SHOP.

PANTHER PRINTS

Got any hot stories? Newspaper staff members scourged BHS for bits of gossip, trivia or long kept secrets to print in the school paper, PANTHER PRINTS.

Along with "home" articles, the PANTHER PRINTS interviewed sundry personalities, ranging from Biology teacher Dot Parsons to television anchorman Cliff Farrier.

The keen interest of these young journalists provided Brookhaven High students with exciting reading all year long.



Above: "Hand over that money!" Excitement ensues as the newspaper staff sells their first edition.
Middle: Anchorman Cliff Farrier enlightens journalists with a surprising interview.
Below: PANTHER PRINTS staff poses.

When VICA member, Kenneth Wesley was asked what he thought of VICA, he said he thought it was a good way for Vo-Tech students to get together.

VICA is the unified body of trade and industrial students at BHS.

VICA was the youngest club at BHS and evidently one of the most active. Along with participating in state VICA competition, VICA's float won first place in the Brookhaven Christmas parade.

That only proved that when Vo-Tech students got together, things had to happen!

..bove: Contrast in class? Jimmy Jackson gets excited while Randy Doss calmly looks on.
Middle: VICA students and Vo-Tech teachers pose for picture.
Below: Another interesting VICA meeting in the Food Service Lab.

CHORUS

Four words adequately described the Brookhaven High Chorus: "They love to sing." Under the direction of Mrs. Kergosien, this group strived to entertain with the sound of music.

The group sported a sextet that was highly rated in a number of contests and a new singing group that leaned toward the more relaxed style of music centering on popular songs. The chorus provided more than one talented artist with an outlet for his ability as illustrated here.

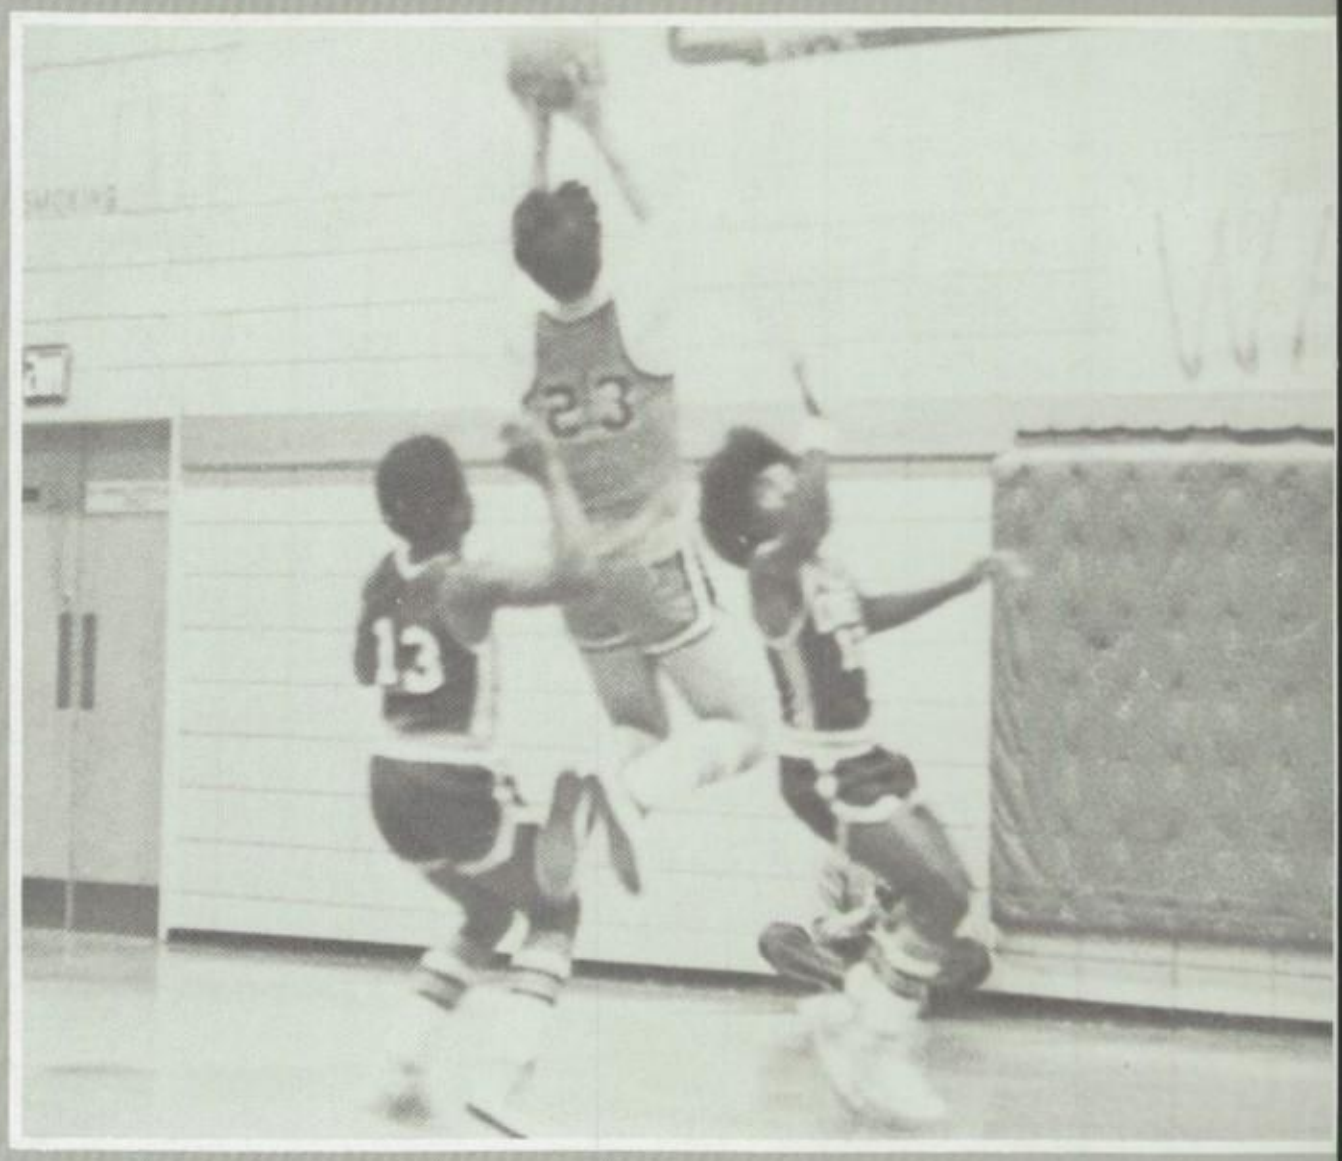
NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

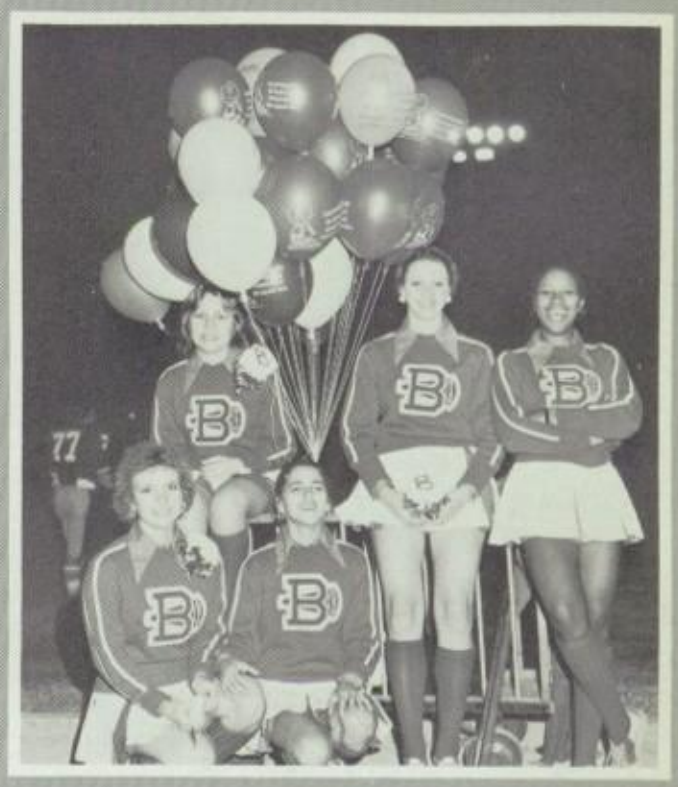
The National Honor Society is a national honorary organization for outstanding high school students. The Brookhaven chapter was organized in 1962 and this year sported 98 members.

The objectives of NHS were to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, and encourage the development of character in students at Brookhaven High School.

Top: Students are given a chance to learn about prospective colleges at college night, sponsored by the NHS.
Middle: Members vote on nominations for two national scholarships.
Bottom: The National Honor Society poses with the new members.

The Variety Shop's Athletic Department has enough action and excitement to please anyone. So take a look, sports fans . . .





GAMES & TOYS

WE STARTED OFF

LINEMEN

THE ENDS

COACHES AND MANAGERS

Kneeling: Sylvester Selman, David Williams, Leslie Dunn, Curtis Lyons. Standing: Tom Clark, Larry Thomas, Bobby Harris, and Terry Goodin.

WITH A BANG . . .

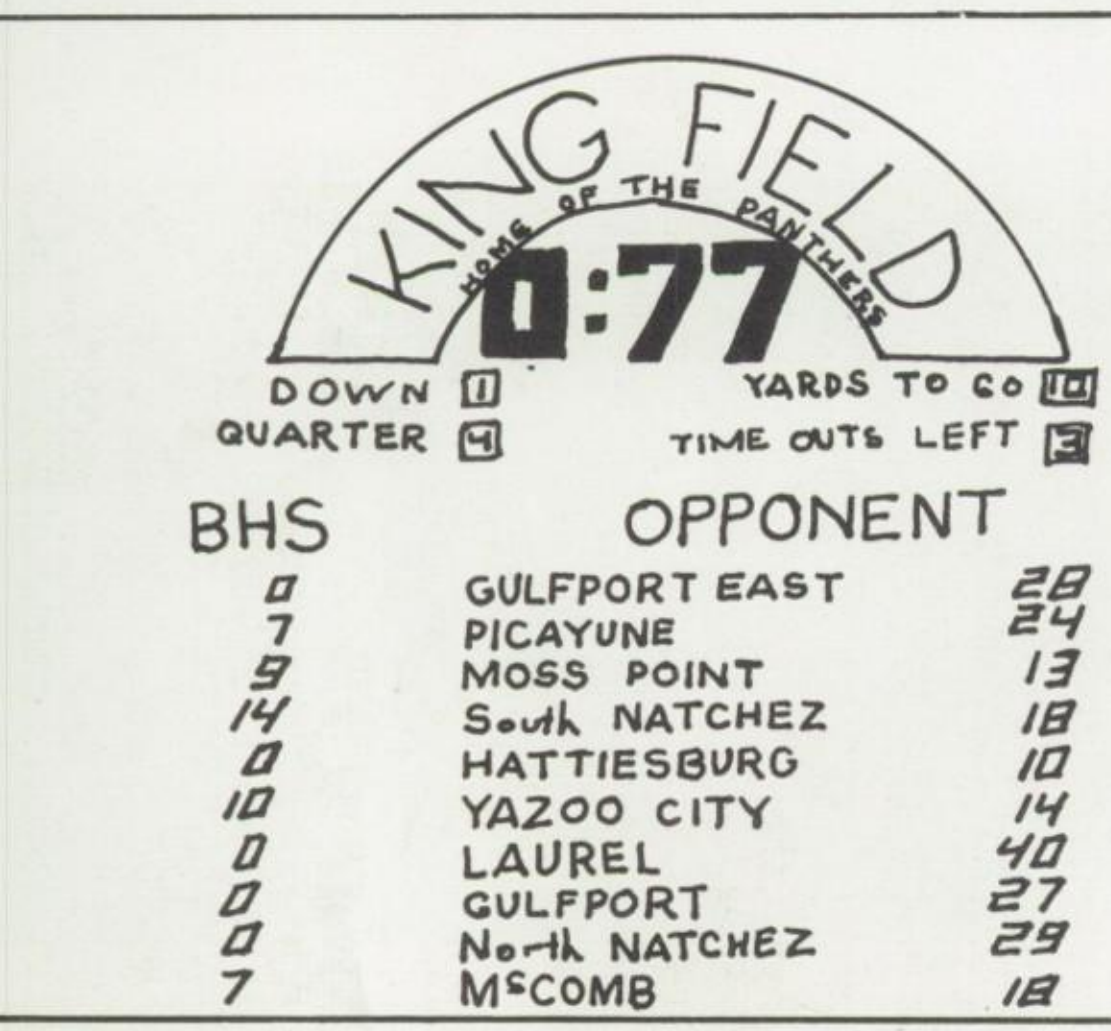
THE BACKS

Kneeling: Curtis Keyes, Julius Smith, Larry Morris, Donald Porter, Benjie Jackson. Standing: Frank Moak, June Dixon, Marshall Dillon, Mike Felder, Frank Jeanson, Bobby Covington, and Coach Goodin.

The Panthers played their hearts out and many times defeated their opponent physically, but never came out on top where it counts--the scoreboard.

As the season grew longer and the excitement of the fans began to diminish, the players nevertheless put forth an optimum effort every Friday night.

Below: Hattisburg Tigers closing in on quarterback, Curtis Keyes.



BHS	OPPONENT
0	GULFPORT EAST	28
7	PICAYUNE	24
9	MOSS POINT	13

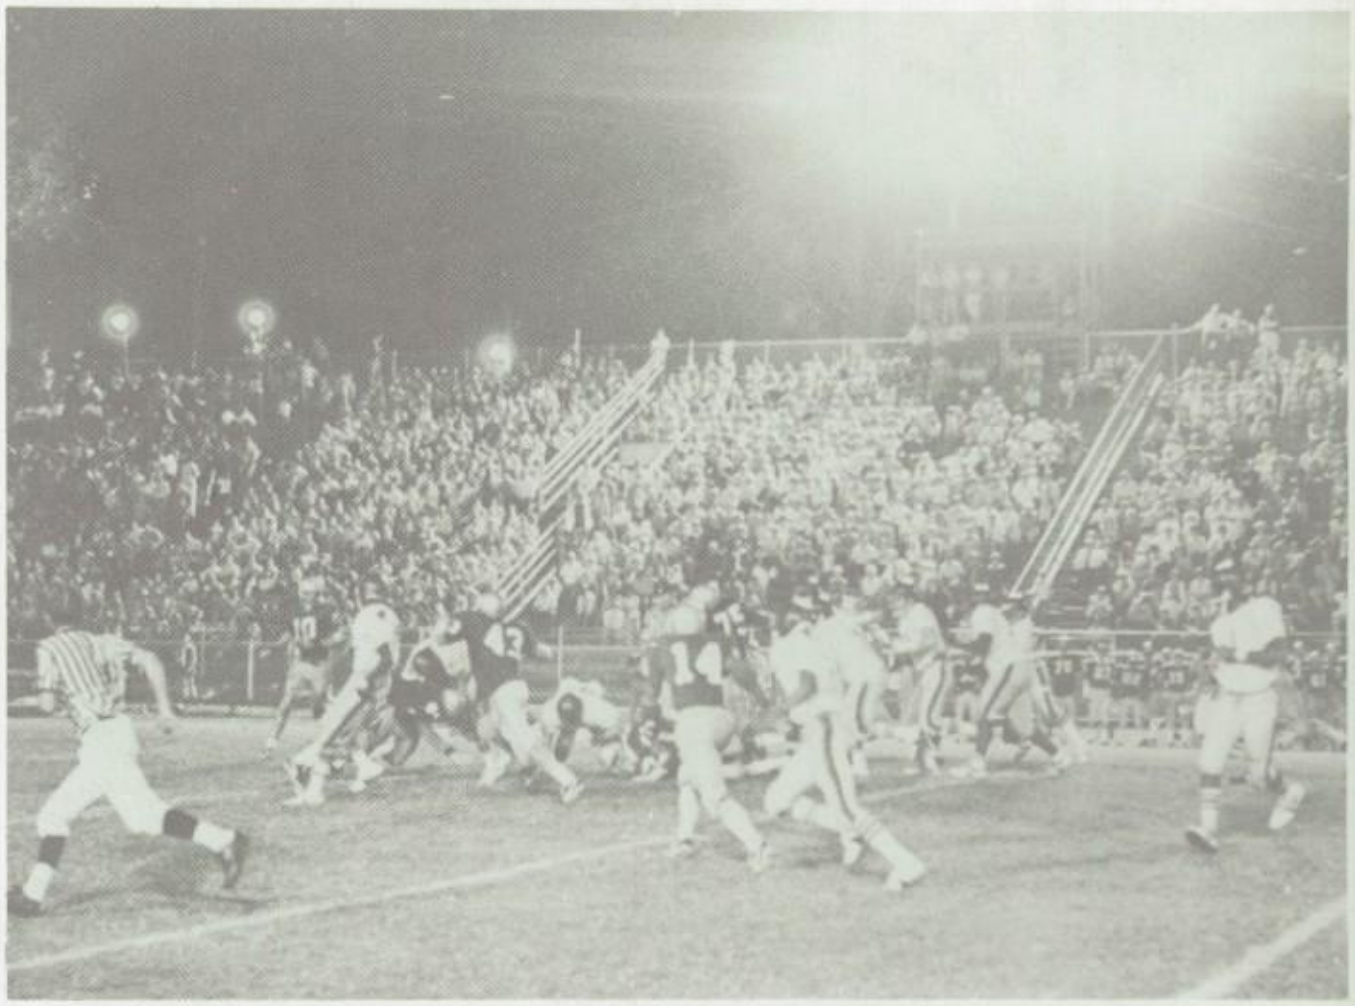
10	YAZOO CITY	14
0	LAUREL	40
0	GULFPORT	27
0	North NATCHEZ	29
7	McCOMB	18

THEN . . . OH, WELL!



The Panther defense was ferocious through most of the season. Sometimes looking like a brick wall but sometimes looking like a barrier of newsprint, the B. H. S. defenders generally did a good job.

Top: Mike Felder bursts through the middle for a gain against South Natchez.

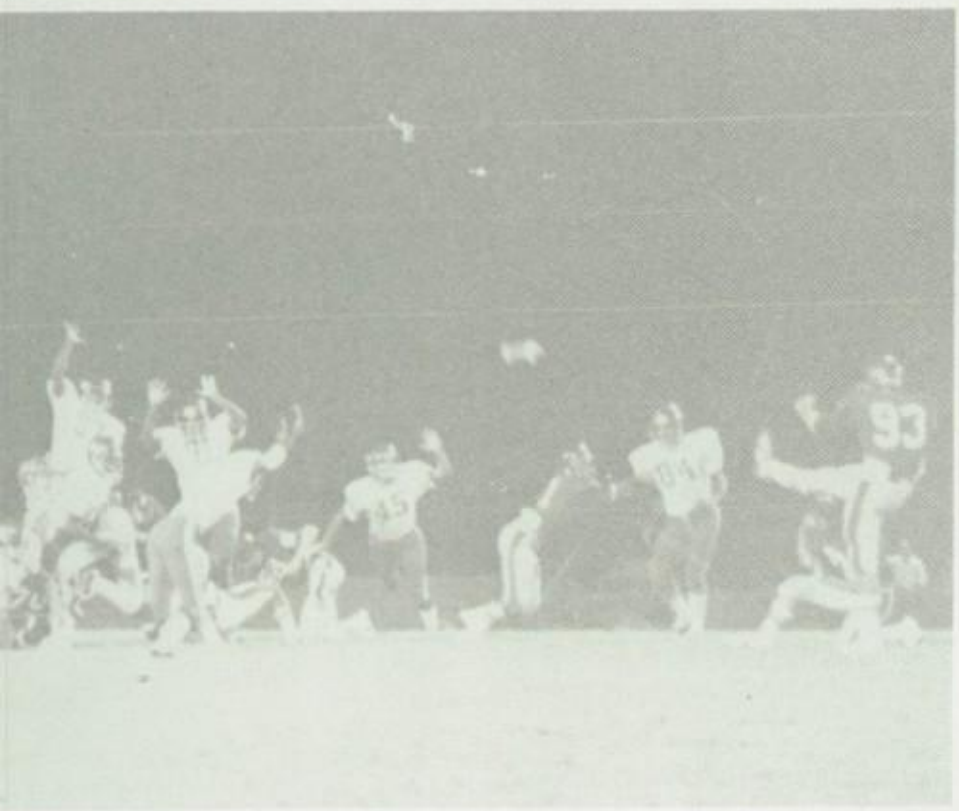
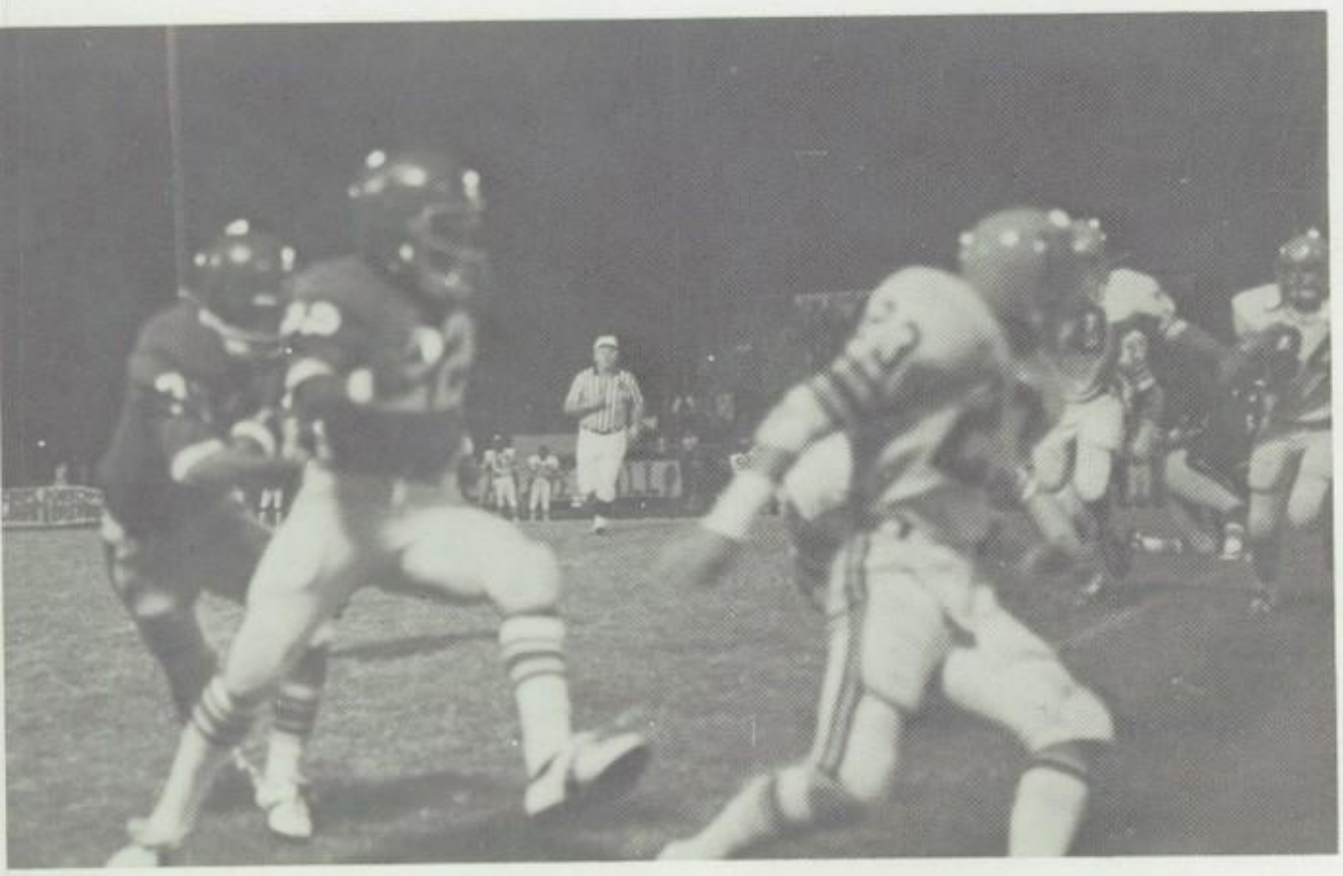
Below: B.H.S. is tough on the goal line.





The wishbone offense, in its initial season at Brookhaven, was not all it was cracked up to be. It provided for the five and ten yard gains but it also increased our ability to fumble.

HARASS!!

Below: Here comes the herd! Cheerleaders pave the way as the Panthers ready for clash with McComb.

Excitement and enthusiasm at the Friday pep rallies was at an all time high this year. Never in the history of B.H.S. has so much school spirit been shown. Not only was this evident by the response during the pep meetings but spirit reigned supreme in the stands at night.

Upper left: "Let me see you Frankenstein, What's that you say?"

THROUGH GOOD AND BAD SEASONS,

At Cheerleader Camp, our Panther cheerleaders were rated superior. They didn't have to go to camp for that honor because we already had given them that rating. In their practice sessions and their actual performances, when they were making signs or when they were "civilians", these girls were always leading the spirit of the school higher and higher.

It was clearly evident that they are dedicated to their school and their job when we saw them at the Gulfport game. With the temperature down to thirty degrees and the rain pouring down, the cheerleaders were still in their skimpy suits, yelling at the top of their lungs.

PANTHERETTES BOAST 20-9 SEASON

Starting the season with three straight wins in the West Lincoln Tourney, the BHS Pantherettes were dubbed, "The Blue Machine." Enthusiasm mounted as the team plowed over the next four opponents. The machine sputtered a bit, and hit a losing streak; but with a few minor adjustments the squad was back to full speed, finishing with a 20-9 season.

This team proved to be the finest squad of Pantherette basketballers since the girls' program was started back in 1975. Nobody dared hope that this team, which had previously recorded slates of 0-21 and 15-15, would win 20 games in one season. It was quite an achievement for this three-year old basketball team to attain its standing in South Mississippi.

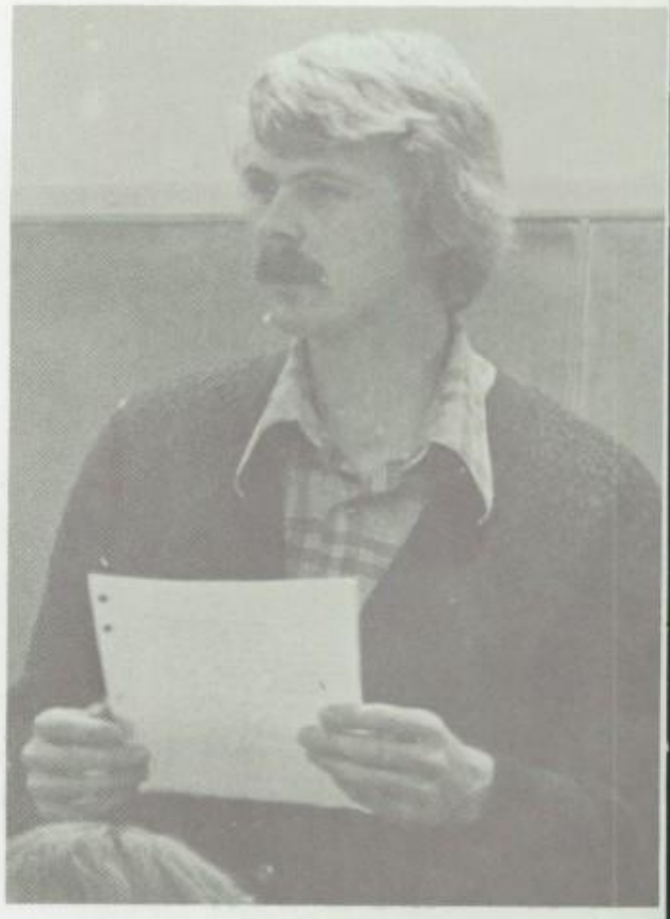
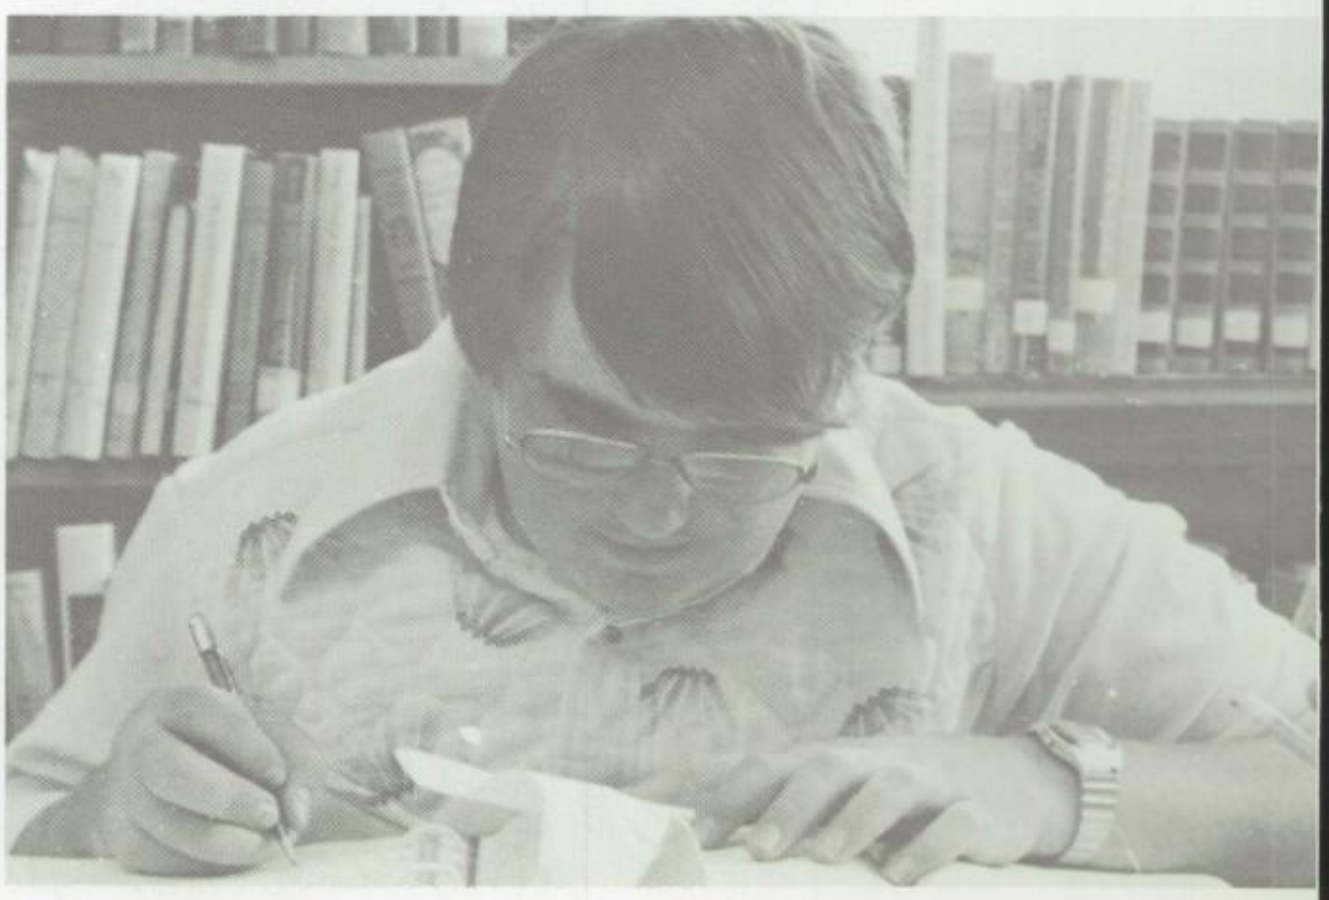
FINAL SALE



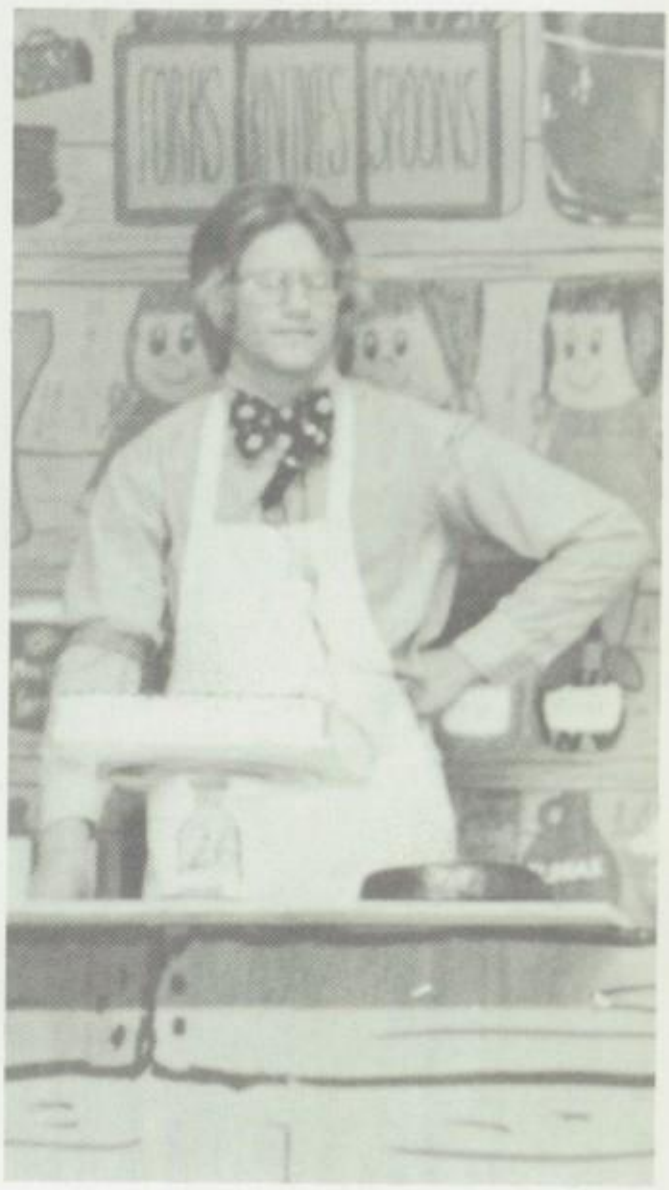
Well, folks, our lease has just expired and the Shop must pass into the hands of new management.

Below Left: Phyllis Dow prepares another great meal for quantity foods.

Upper Right: Visiting poet, Harry Maxin, marvels at the creativity of BHS'ers.
Center: Recess is exciting at BHS?
Below Right: ''How can I work these without a cheat sheet?'' Gordon Haley wastes time in library by studying.



Left: A Y-Teens ready for group picture.
Below Right: "My mother told me there'd be days like this!" But David Crasto just can't believe it.
Bottom: Teachers model sweatshirts on Basketball Day.



BIG CLEARANCE

We are having a "last chance, final clearance" sale May 20. Everything will be going fast.

Top: Obviously finding class entertaining, Kenny Ray Baker looks for the way out.
Center: Taking a break in the Activity Building, Cathy Hazard wonders if life will always be like this.
Below: Well aware that there is film in the camera, Robin Robinson, William Huff and Marshall Dillon strike a pose.

Left: "Oh, these girls!" Mr. McGee poses with his fan club.
Below: Tim Simmons works on the finer points of being a drummer.

A GOOD DEAL

All sales are final. No returns or exchanges can be allowed; but we anticipate customer satisfaction.

Below: "Would you like a fat lip?" Angie McKee, Angie Gillis and Robin Hart are on the defensive.
Far Below: Watch out, Daytona! Industrial Arts stage their own Metric 500.

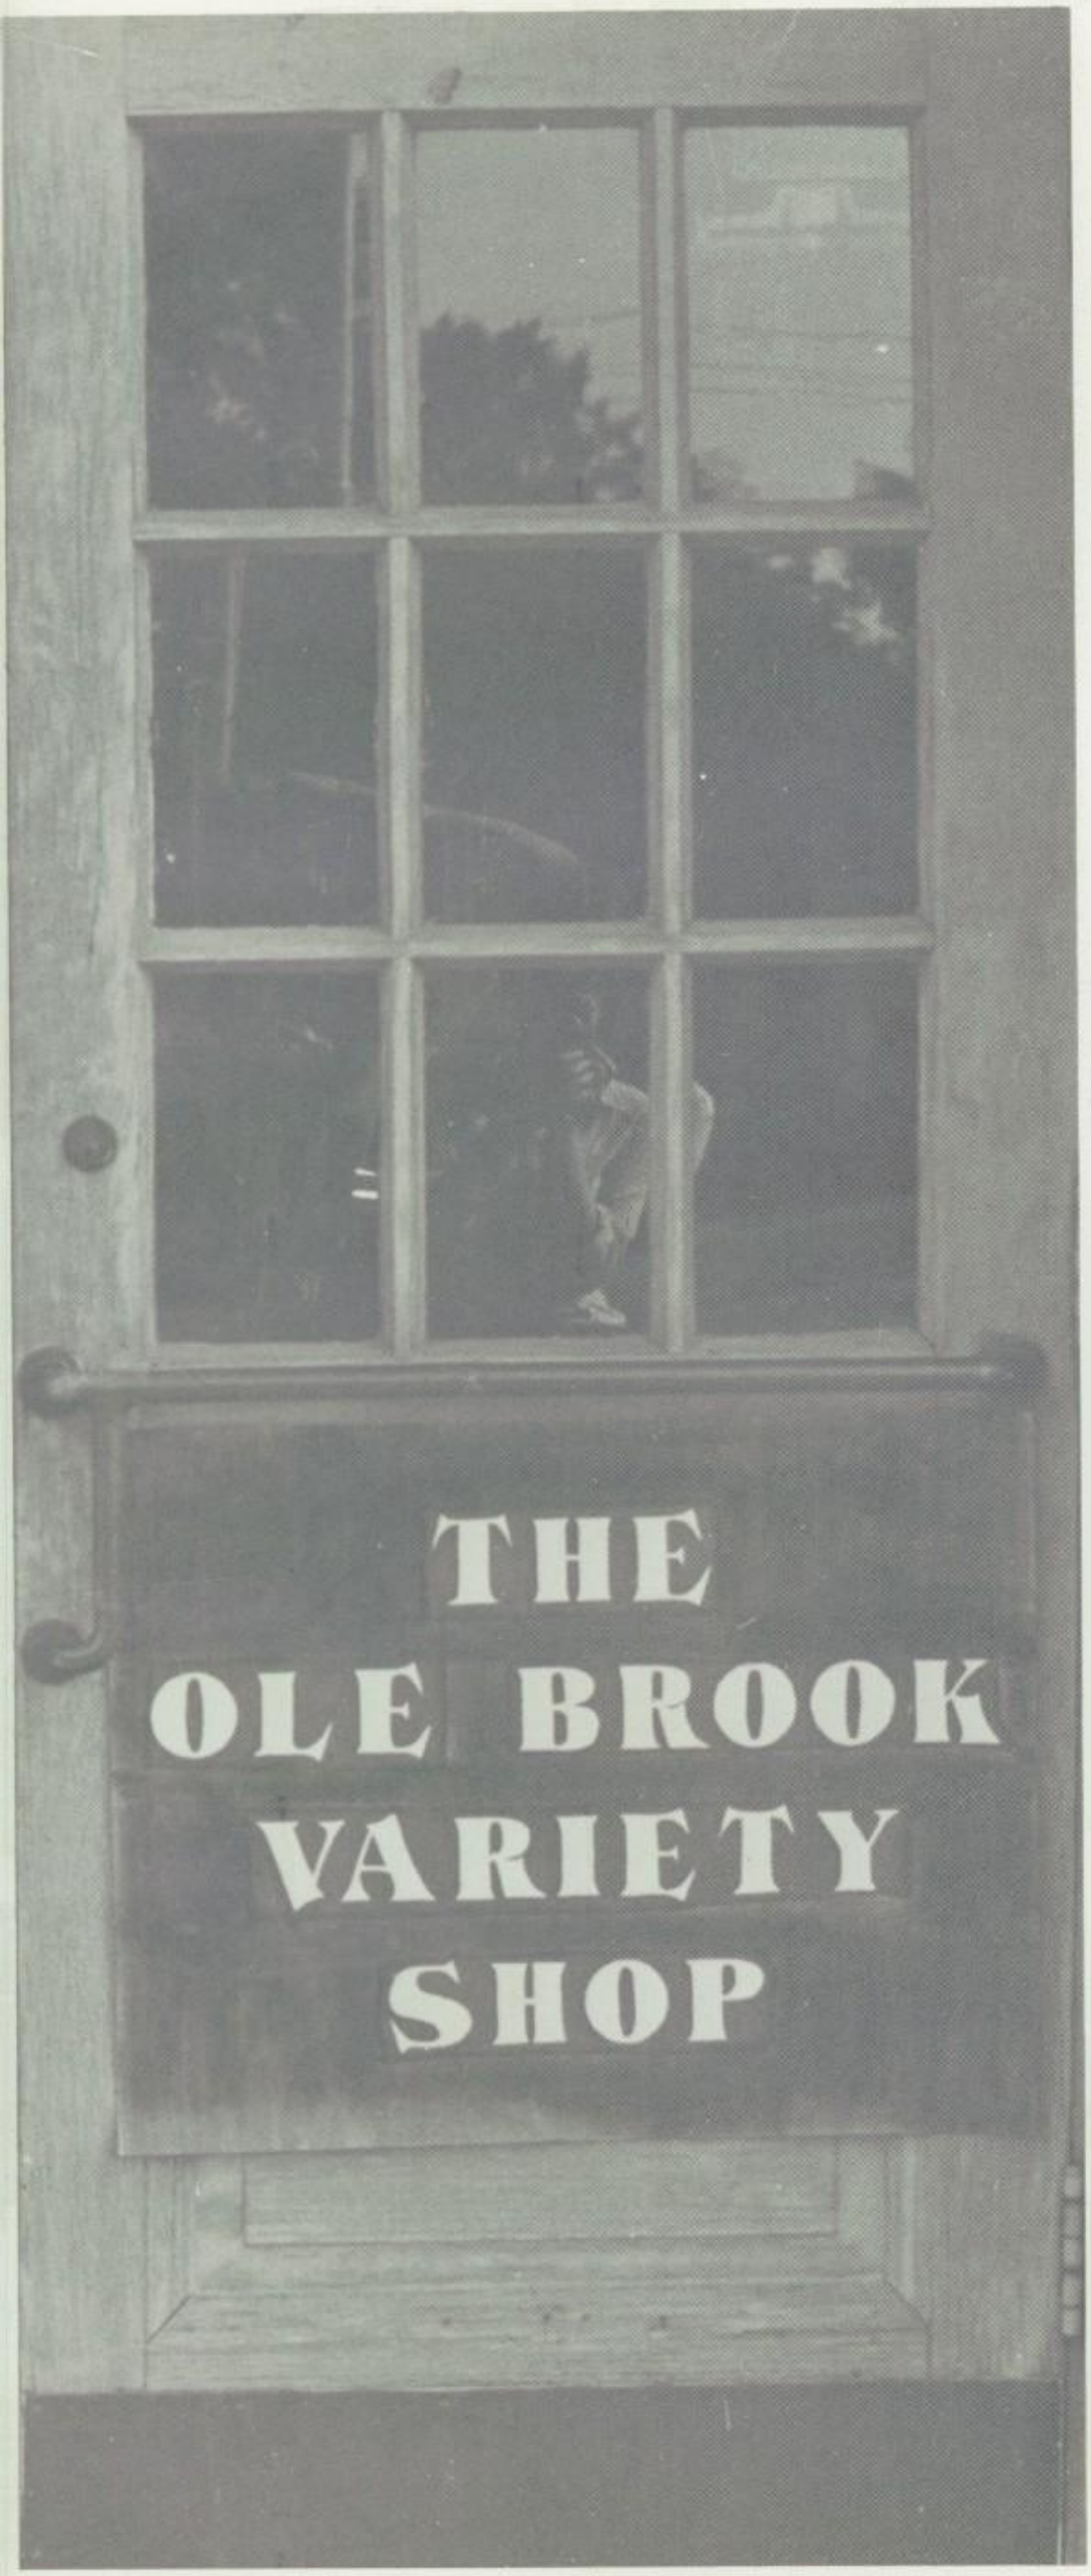
Right: Free concerto? Norman Wallace serenades an unappreciative Ronnie Williams.
Right Center: Jimmy Gulley dreams of a future in the band, while Connie Shiel and John Thomas try to forget.
Right Below: A welcome addition is the new pop group at BHS.

Basketball day brings out the weird in everybody. Mrs. Sarah "Basketball Jones" White and Mr. W.L. "Cocky Roach" model a growing trend in fashion.

CLOSING TIME

Next year the Variety Shop will return, sporting a new name and new management. One thing will remain the same -- friendly atmosphere and unbeatable quality.

Top: Jim Moyer cheats on Felecia Jett's hand while Joel Rushing looks on during another poker game in Analysis.
Center: Student Council sponsors Mrs. Sarah White and Mrs. Dorothy Heaton keep a close watch on things at BHS.
Below: New construction at BHS marks the beginning of something big.



The long hours of work in the Variety Shop are over, and only one thing is left to say --

We hooped it.
